Location: Loyola Notre Dame Library
Job Title: Health and Natural Sciences Librarian

Responsibilities: The Loyola Notre Dame Library seeks an innovative Health and Natural Sciences Librarian to support the educational missions of Loyola University Maryland and Notre Dame of Maryland University. The successful candidate, in collaboration with other library units and campus partners, will serve a diverse population of students, faculty, staff, and community members. The Health and Natural Sciences Librarian will be committed to developing relationships with both campuses to support the library's research and instruction program. The Librarian will also develop relationships with faculty and campus partners to support Loyola and Notre Dame's health and natural sciences programs. The position reports to the Assistant Director, Research & Technology Services.

- Develop, implement, and promote educational programming, for in-person and online instruction, orientations, and workshops in the health sciences.
- Assess health sciences programming and instruction efforts in line with Loyola and Notre Dame's learning outcomes and academic standards.
- Provide library research and services to on-campus and remote students, incorporating active learning into both in-person and online experiences.
- Serve as a liaison for Loyola's and Notre Dame's undergraduate and graduate health and natural sciences programs while fostering relationships, building strategic partnerships, and leading outreach efforts.
- Leads and serves on LNDL and other committees as assigned.

Requirements:
- ALA-accredited master's in library/information science;
- One to two years' experience in library instruction, or teaching in a university setting;
- Commitment and demonstrated experience engaging openly in an environment where diversity of thought and background are valued;
- Knowledge of current and emerging trends in health sciences librarianship;
- Proven ability to take initiative and work independently and collaboratively;
- Demonstrated project management and organizational skills;
- Demonstrated ability to collect, compile, and analyze data;
- Ability to thrive in a changing work environment and demonstrate commitment to professional development.

Salary Range: Commensurate with experience

Application Process: Please apply at Loyola-Notre Dame Library Inc - Job Opportunities (paylocity.com). Review of applications will begin immediately, and the position will remain open until filled. Please complete our application process by including a resume, cover letter, and a list of three professional references.

Closing Date: June 2024